Greeks Retire to Their Main Defense Line

Russia Asserts British Command Eastern Mediterranean

ATHENS — (AP) — Italy's invading legions thrust a heavy attack into the western sector of Greece's stubborn defenses Wednesday, apparently driving for Ioannina, 30 miles from the frontier, and about the same distance from the coast.

Neutral military quarters said the Greeks were resisting strongly, although advance guards who faced the border at the outbreak of hostilities were slowly retiring to the main defense line in accordance with a pre-conceived plan.

The fighting was heaviest since Italy attempted the invasion, they said, and heavy artillery thundered through out the night on the lower flank of the battle line in northwestern Greece. The Italians were said to be still far from the main Greek defense system, which was described as strongly fortified.

Italians Advance
ROME — (AP) — Fascist troops were reported to be driving deeper into Greece from the Albanian frontier Wednesday without encountering any "serious military difficulties."

An authoritative source said the Greeks were resisting but the Italians denied that Greece had driven any counter-thrust into Albania.

Russia Watches
MOSCOW — (AP) — "Red Star," the Soviet Army Newspaper, declared Wednesday that the British fleet is master of the eastern Mediterranean and forecast a hard battle between the Greek-British allies and Italy.

German Raider
BERLIN — (AP) — The sinking of three merchant ships, totalling 18,400 tons, by a German warship "operating in overseas waters" was reported Wednesday by the German high command.

The high command said that a submarine also sunk a large armed merchant ship of 10,500 tons. The area in which the warship is operating was not disclosed.

Bombers Over England
LONDON — (AP) — German air raiders crossed England's southeast coast Wednesday apparently headed for London but were engaged high above the clouds by British fighter planes and were reported turned back.

At any rate London had only a brief daylight alarm.

Radio Stars at Farmers' Meet

Arizona Ranch Girls to Sing for Farm Bureau

An all-star entertainment feature for the Hempstead County Farm Bureau's annual organization meeting and family get-together at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station this Thursday, October 31, was assured Wednesday with announcement of the appearance here of the Arizona Ranch Girls, popular singers and dancers now appearing on a Shreveport station.

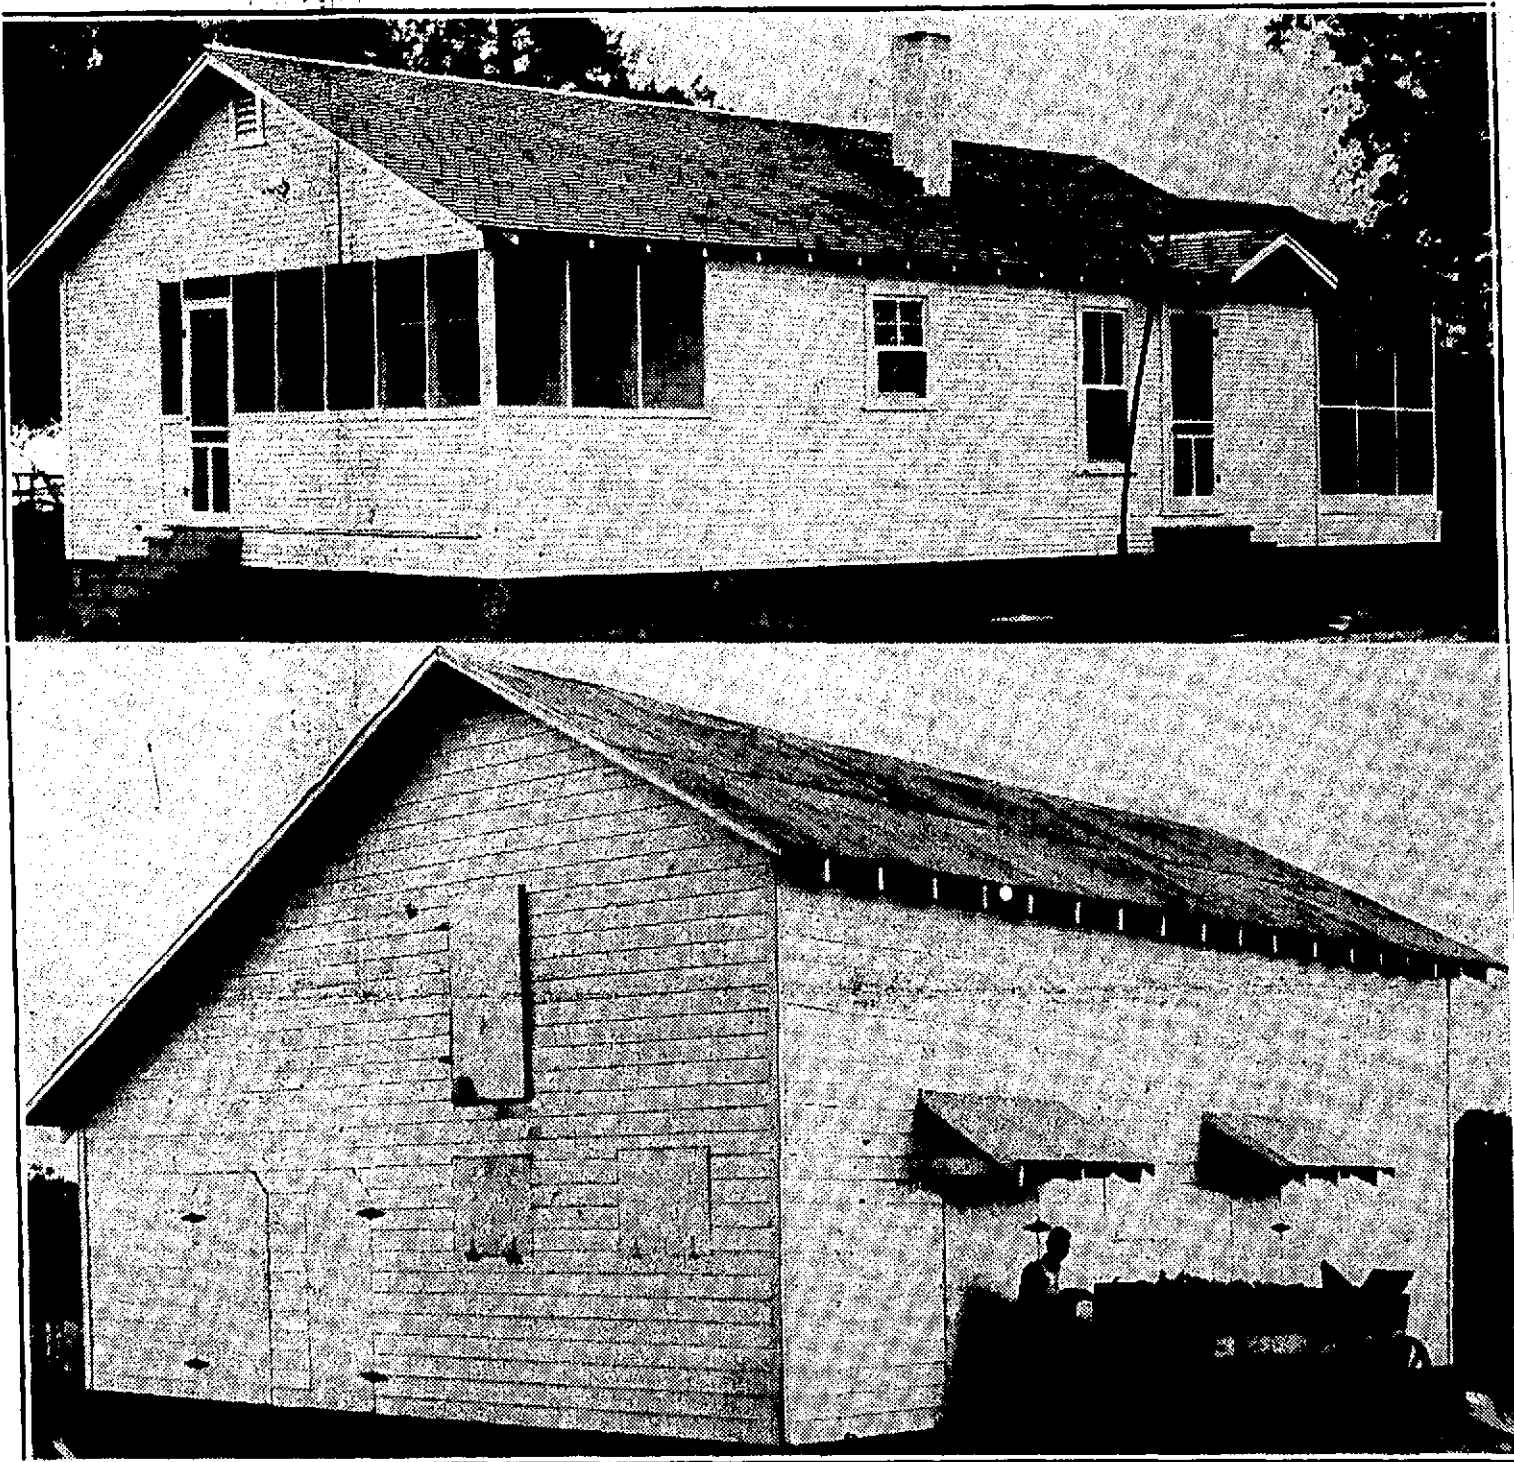

All arrangements for the annual meeting, which will be held in the recreation area of the Experiment Station, have been completed by L. C. Sommerville, president, and Lee H. Garland, secretary, of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau.

YBMA Committee to Meet on Thursday

An important business and policy meeting of the executive committee of the Young Business Men's association has been called for 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at the Star office by A. E. Stonequist, acting president. Committee members requested to attend are: Dale Jones, H. O. Kyler, A. H. Washburn, F. E. Nolen, Roy Stephenson and Leo Robins.

Mont Blanc, the highest peak of the Alps, commonly supposed to be in Switzerland, really is almost entirely in French territory.

This Model Hempstead Co. Farm Home Built as Inducement for Tenant to Become Farm Owner

—Hope Star Photo

Built under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Purchase Act, this model house and barn are the first of two federally-financed homesteads awaiting deserving Hempstead county tenant-farmers who wish to become farm-owners. The property in the picture, located north of old Highway 67, west of Hope, was finished two weeks ago; and a similar house and barn are being built on another location in the county.

Farm Bureau Outlines Vote

Here Are Recommendations on Acts, Amendments

Every Hempstead county farmer, man and woman, should study closely proposed pieces of legislation to be voted on at the November 5 general election, says Lee H. Garland, Secretary of the County Farm Bureau, in releasing the following recommendations of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation board of directors which represents our agricultural interests. No stand was taken on the remaining five proposed measures.

Support of the federation has been placed behind Referred Act 314, a personal injury suit change of venue proposal, and referred Act 319, dealing with workmen's compensation, which its spokesmen declare if adopted will do much to outlaw the damage suit racket in Arkansas and stabilize industry.

Proposed Initiated Act 1, which would have the state government handle workmen's compensation insurance, is being opposed by the Farm Bureau on the grounds that it can best be handled by private companies. This decision is based on the experiences of other states.

The Rotenberry Old Age Pension Amendment (proposed Constitutional Amendment 36) is being opposed by the Farm Bureau, officials of the organization charging that "it obviously would disturb the common school and state welfare funds and programs, ultimately resulting in tax-

Order Numbers of Draft to Be Published Later

The lists showing the order in which the draft-registration numbers were drawn in the national conscription lottery in Washington Tuesday will be published by The Star as rapidly as possible.

The first 200 numbers and names were published direct off the Associated Press wire Tuesday.

The nearly 4,000 registered names in Hempstead county were published serially in the daily Star and will appear altogether on four pages of the Hope Weekly Star for Thursday, October 31.

The order list, which should be completed in another week, will give Hempstead county a complete tabulation on the draft—the registration list this week, and the order list next week.

Extra copies of these complete tables of names and numbers may be obtained at The Star office, 212-14 South Walnut street.

Wing of War Building Burns

Signal Corps Offices Badly Damaged by Fire

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A wing of the War Department building which housed the Signal Corps' message center from which the Signal Corps sends coded messages was swept by fire early Wednesday.

Massed fire equipment of the District of Columbia brought the flames under control after more than an hour. Cause of the fire and exact proportions of the damage was not established immediately.

A Thought

Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!—Psalms 107:15.

Mike Murphy Is in Critical Condition

Mike Murphy, resident manager of the Louisiana-Nevada Transit company, who was badly injured in an automobile collision west of here on U. S. 67 Monday morning, remained in a most critical condition Tuesday afternoon at Julia Chester hospital. Mr. Murphy was returning from a visit with his wife in Dallas, Texas, when the accident occurred. Mrs. Murphy arrived in Hope Monday night.

5,430 Bales Ginned in Nevada County

Census reports show that 5,420 bales of cotton were ginned in Nevada county from the current year's crop prior to October 18, as compared with 8,828 bales for the crop of 1939, according to Carl Munn, of Boston, special agent for the Department of Commerce.

Oklahoma has the largest Indian population, 92,725; Arizona is next with 43,726.

Roosevelt to Reveal Plan on Wednesday

President Denies Conscription Is Anything But Self-Defense

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO BOSTON — (AP) — A major step to increase aid for Britain and her allies will probably be announced by President Roosevelt Wednesday night in an address at Boston, a White House official indicated Wednesday.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, advised reporters to be on the watch for something along that line, but gave no hint as to the nature of the aid.

Roosevelt to Boston
ENROUTE WITH ROOSEVELT TO BOSTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt started the political excursion into New England Wednesday by telling a drenched crowd at New Haven, (Conn.) station that men were being trained for military service for "just the same reason you've got umbrellas up Wednesday so as not to get wet."

With all the production of war equipment and supplies, the president said, it is still necessary to have manpower, even though there are no expectations of using it.

"Incidentally," he added, "I think you realize that all this talk about sending American boys to Europe—well, it does not compare with either the facts of the past or the facts of the future."

Lottery Gives Officials Fit

First It's 6 Numbers Short, Then 2 Numbers Long

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The grand conscription lottery which held marching orders for some five million young Americans was finished in an unlocked-for flurry Wednesday morning with six numbers missing but finally wound up officially with two numbers more than it should have had.

The last capsule was drawn at 4:47 a. m. and should have been the 9,000th. Instead it proved to be the 8,994th, despite the most elaborate precautions six numbering-bearing capsules were missing.

Selective service officials immediately instituted a check to track down the omitted number. Records kept throughout the marathon drawing confirmed the number missing as six.

The master list disagreed, however, showing eight unaccounted for.

To make sure that every number missing from the master list would be drawn General Lewis Hershey had a special "junior drawing" of those 8 numbers.

The official last number drawn accordingly was 9,002nd—the number being 1839.

Prescott to Pave Streets

Work Already in Progress on WPA Project

PRESOTT — A blacktopping project, obtained for Prescott through the sponsorship of the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the Works Project Administration, is well underway with the preliminary work on two streets having already been completed and work in progress on the third street.

The entire cost of the project will run to $10,158.00, according to F. E. Wharton, engineer for the WPA. Of this amount the sponsor's share will be $3,903 in material and equipment, and the remaining total, $7,155 will be furnished in material and labor by the WPA.

COTTON

NEW YORK — (AP) — January cotton opened no trading, closed 9.46. Mid-dling spot 9.78.

From the Columns of The Star of Hope

Col. D. Lattimore, of Stamps, was in Hope this morning.
Horace Ellen of Columbus was here yesterday.
Mrs. R. L. Harmon, accompanied by Misses Ida and Mollie Hatch, are spending week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. J. F. City at Fulton.
Miss Faye Cheneau has as guest for the week-end, Miss Louise Coats, of Ashdown.
Miss Frances Reed has returned from a visit to Little Rock.
Mrs. Charles Garrett has returned from a visit to relatives in Okolona.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Watkins and son, Dixon, are spending today in Nashville.
Joneses have nasty dispositions.
When the wife nags her husband about the rate she is long overdue, he can't say, "Your mother has been after you again. If she would just keep her nose out of our affairs."
When the husband doesn't like his wife's cooking, she can't use the age-old retort, "I suppose it isn't the way your mother makes it."
When the wife gets fed up and wants an exit line, she can't rely on
"I'm going home to mother."
When the husband wants a little marital vacation, he can't assume a martyr-like expression and say, "Maybe you'd better go home for a couple of weeks and see if your mother's illness isn't more serious than she is making out."
When financial difficulties come, the husband can't say, "Well, if we did not have all your no-good relatives to support, we'd get along all right."
You Marry a Whole Family
And should the husband and wife eventually call it quits, the husband can't explain to his friends, "If it hadn't been for my wife's mother, we would have made a go of it," and the wife can't shrug off responsibility for the failure with "You don't marry just a man, unfortunately; you marry his whole family."
No, every married couple needs in-laws. If for no other reason than to have someone besides themselves to blame their troubles on.

CHAPTER XX
ONLY Patricia Langdon, Gundrum, and Braitwood appeared at dinner. Marta had gone in to sit with Nella again and Hugh remained in his room. He said he was ill.
"That fellow Plowman is an ace, in his thorough way," Craig said, after Togi had served soup.
"He hasn't overlooked a trick, but he won't get another word out of me."
"Why not?" Sidney smiled.
"Our friend Murphy searched the Jungle after your chimney ghost vanished, Braitwood," Gundrum said. "The captain was not satisfied, so he did a bit of prowling on his own this afternoon."
"Did he find anything unusual?"
Sidney wanted to know.
"Rather. He discovered a dressing gown that belonged to Adam Langdon and a pair of Langdon's socks hidden in a hollow mounting block of an innocent harte-beeste. Most of the blocks are solid, but this one proved an exception. There were dog hairs on the front of the gown and it smelled of chloroform."
"Well, I'm damned!" Sidney exclaimed.
"Exactly what Craig said," Pat put in. "Plowman can see through solid wood."
AFTER dinner Braitwood sought Togi in the kitchen. The valet was washing the dishes but he turned from his work.
"Something I can do for you,
Mr. Braitwood?"
"Yes. I want to know all you recall of what happened yesterday afternoon before Miss Hemphfield and I arrived."
The valet's eyes brooded for a moment and then he said, "I make mistake at first, Mr. Braitwood.
When I see pistol near Miss Hemphfield I think she shoot. Now
I know that gun no go off."
"What would you have told me
had that gun been the murder weapon, Togi?"
"Miss Hemphfield nice lady.
Know long time. Vely nice," Togi said in a low voice. "Mr. Langdon not same since marry. I hear bad talk with Mrs. Langdon yesterday morning. She say, 'I put you away.'"

Navy 'Way Ahead Of Its Schedule on Puerto Rican Air Base Project
WASHINGTON—The U. S. navy is rushing the job of setting up an "air Gibraltar" on Puerto Rico, and expects to have its vast air base there ready for use next June, a whole year ahead of schedule.
The job is a big one, involving the filling-in of hundreds of acres of swamp at Isla Grande, near San Juan, the dredging of an adjacent bay.
Engineers had originally figured they could fill in the swamp with what they took out of the bottom of the bay, but when they got down to it they found out they couldn't—wrong kind of dirt, or something. So they've had to cut down a small mountain, whack up into bits, and use that as a foundation.
In spite of all of this the job is 'way ahead of time. Right now the navy can keep only about a dozen planes at Isla Grande. Next year at this time it'll have more than 200 there.
Shipbuilding Pushed
The navy also has the throttle wide open on its shipbuilding program, although the results aren't so noticeable. Number of workers employed on this program in government and private shipyards was 72,000 at the end of last June. It had jumped to 86, 000 by the end of August, and rose 7000 more during September.
Eight of the 17 battleships which have been ordered are actually under construction, and two of the eight have been launched. Only one of the 12 airplane carriers contracted for is on the ways, and only six of the 48 cruiser contracts were signed in September, incidentally. Work is ahead of schedule on eight of the 12 submarines under construction. Orders have been placed for 166 destroyers, and work has started on 15; in six cases, work is anywhere from two weeks to three months ahead of schedule.
Lastly, navy recruiting is booming. In uniform now are 168,000 men.
Nearly 40,000 are men who have enlisted since the first of this year.
No special drive to get men is being carried on—they come without being asked for, 178,000 have applied so far this year.

Green Quinine For Chinese
Among the bizarre problems the Red Cross handed itself when it started that first load of medicines off to China via the Burma road was the matter of dyeing 40,000,000 quinine tablets green.
Green quinine doesn't taste any better than the other kind, but that's how the Chinese prefer it. Some years ago the Red Cross was passing out Chinese druggists got to collecting them and selling them, and to check this the Red Cross man on the spot got some vegetable dyes and colored his tablets green, telling all hands green tablets shouldn't be paid for.
All of which made a big hit, and somehow gave the run-of-mine Chinese the idea quinine had to be green to be good.
In that connection, green or not,
those quinine tablets may prove essential to the proper functioning of the Burma road supply trains. The road dips through a valley that is highly malarial. Medical men have reported that unless there's plenty of quinine the truckers and repair crews wouldn't be able to keep going very long.
Medicines now being shipped (including aspirin, sulfanilamide and other things, besides quinine) have cost around $300,000. Red Cross plans to spend plenty more in the same way, but wants to see first just how much Japanese interference there'll be with these shipments.
More effort is consumed in working a typewriter all day than is required in 8 hours of digging.

Dr. Crow Answers Charge of Basic Science Board

A charge by the Arkansas Basic Science Board that Dr. F. C. Crow of Hope "is not legally licensed to practice," and therefore should be removed from the State Board of Chiropractic.

practice. Examiners, published in Little Rock Wednesday morning, drew an answering statement from Dr. Crow in Hope Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Crow said:

In 1912 the Arkansas Supreme Court ruled that Chiropractic was not the practice of medicine and that the practice of medicine was the Art of Healing.

In 1915 the Legislature of Arkansas passed a law creating a state board of Chiropractic Examiners with power to examine applicants for licenses to practice and power to issue said license. And defining the practice of Chiropractic.

In 1921 the Legislature amended the original law to where the board would have authority to enter into reciprocal relations with other states, charge an annual renewal fee and raised the requirements to obtain a license.

In 1929 the Legislature passed the so called "Basic Science" law which it thought was aimed at the Kansas City diploma that had been selling medical diplomas and throwing in an Arkansas medical license as trimmings. But as soon as the law was passed the Medical Society contended that it should be applied to Chiropractors but the Attorney General of Arkansas ruled that the basic science law should not be applied when one obtained a license by reciprocity with some other state. Attorney General Bailey ruled this again on December 2, 1936.

Upon the basis of the first opinion Dr. F. C. Crow was issued a license by the Chiropractic board, upon the basis of reciprocity with the state of Kansas.

Dr. Crow opened an office in his native state of Arkansas and has become established in the community and is a property tax payer and in 1938 the Governor of Arkansas saw fit to appoint him to the examining board, but on August 19, 1938 the Arkansas medical society asked for an injunction against the board to restrain the board from issuing further licenses without the applicant possessing a basic science certificate and named two Little Rock Chiropractors in the complaint but the two Little Rock Chiropractors were never notified or summoned and therefore never answered the complaint that all they knew about was what they read in the papers.

This injunction suit was heard in Pulaski Chancery Court on June 7, 1939 and the court ruled that the basic science law did not apply to Chiropractors under any circumstances and directed the board to not only accept applications for reciprocity but to conduct examinations as directed by the Chiropractic Statute. This the Chiropractic board did until the supreme court reversed the lower court decision.

Dr. Crow stated that since approval of the basic science law on March 14, 1929 the Chiropractic board issued 278 licenses under the direction of the Attorney General and the Pulaski Chancery court but issued none contrary to the then interpretation of the basic science law.

The basic science board has authority to grant certificates by reciprocity and is now doing it with all state medical boards that enjoy that privilege with the exception of Arizona, Connecticut and the District of Columbia. And it might be added that the Montana medical board does not even examine in all the basic science subjects.

In May of this year Dr. Crow suggested to those that are now in the State practicing on a license issued under authority of attorney General opinions and the lower court decision that they take an examination in some state that examines in all of the basic sciences and then file for a basic science certificate by reciprocity which the Arkansas basic science board has the authority to grant and is now granting to holders of medical licenses of the many other states, with the exceptions noted.

Realizing that two Chiropractors of Arkansas namely Dr. J. M. Howard of Pine Bluff and Dr. Hugh Lindquist of Paris, Arkansas had tried the Arkansas basic science examination and reported the "Reception" they received, Dr. Crow advised the Chiropractors to take the examination in some other state and apply for the certificate by reciprocity rather than appear before his unfriendly board in Arkansas.

Dr. Crow took the July 1940 examination before Maryland board which is one of the four Chiropractic States that examines in all the basic sciences. He passed this examination and has now made application for an Arkansas basic science certificate by reciprocity with the State of Maryland.

Dr. Crow feels that since the Arkansas basic science board is now reciprocating with the Maryland medical board that it should also do so with the Maryland Chiropractic board since the Maryland Chiropractic board, like the Maryland Medical board, meets all the requirements of the Arkansas basic science law.

The Arkansas basic science board is to meet in the first part of November and it is thought that it is looking for some excuse to keep from granting to Dr. Crow the basic science certificate he is now entitled to and has therefore asked the Governor to remove him from office, as a member of the board of examiners, on the ground that his license is illegal since it was issued under authority of an Attorney General opinion without him having first obtained the basic science certificate that so far no Chiropractor has ever been privileged to have.

In the meantime the Chiropractors that have received their licenses since March 14, 1929 are practicing on the assumption that their licenses were obtained in good faith and are good until proven otherwise but realizing that the medical society of Arkansas, which is affiliated with a group of doctors whose head office is on Dearborn street, of Chicago and whose principal leader, the secretary of the group, is now under federal indictment, has the authority to challenge the licenses in Chancery court.

The Chiropractic board asked the supreme court for a clarification as to the status of the licenses since March 14, 1929 and the court stated that it could not rule upon the question because it was not brought up in the lower court. So the status of Dr. Crow's license along with 277 others is still undetermined.

Realizing that many Chiropractors of the state have young families and are buying their homes and obtained their licenses in good faith and have committed no crime and that if there was a mistake made by the Attorney General of Arkansas and the Chancery Court that the young Chiropractors should not be made to suffer; the legislature will be asked to correct its mistake of 1929 when it failed to define the healing art specifically.

Mischa Auer, Banana King in Latest Screen Comedy

If all the screen characters Mischa Auer has created were to speak out at the same time, the result would sound something like the confusion of tongues at the Tower of Babel.

For during his years of popularity the Russian comedy star has played every imaginable type from French waiters and Hungarian noblemen to Arizona cowboys and Italian opera singers.

In his latest screen role, however, Auer is required to play an entirely new characterization. He portrays a fiery South American banana king in Universal's musical farce, "Margarita," with Nan Grey, Tom Brown, Edgar Kennedy, Allen Jenkins and Joy Hodges.

In preparation for the role, the comedian had to learn an array of Spanish phrases and exclamations to punctuate his rapid-fire exclamations.

"If you can imagine a Russian speaking English with an exaggerated Spanish accent, you have an idea of how I sound," Mischa remarked.

Escaped Revolution

Dialects, however, have been part of the comedian's stock in trade ever since he escaped the Red Revolution as a youth and came to America to live with his grandfather, Leopold Auer, famed music master who taught violin to Zimbalist, Helfetz and Elman. Auer capitalized on his dialects and knowledge of languages to gain his start on the stage.

This linguistic talent also helped him earn a living as a screen villain before he scored with his comedy performance in "My Man Godfrey" and graduated into higher roles.

up before the voters every two years, raising the public school fund, and lowering the age limit for old-age pensioners so that pensioners would receive less under this measure than they actually receive today. The measure is bitterly opposed by the Arkansas Farm Bureau, the State Parent-Teacher Congress, yours truly and many others. Vote against it. Scratch out the line "For Amendment No. 38."

REFERRED ACT 4—(Bailey Refunding Bill)—Governor Bailey has withdrawn as the bill's sponsor, to avoid conflict with Governor-Elect Adkins, and you should therefore vote against the measure. Scratch out the line "For Act No. 4."

REFERRED ACT 314—(Venue Act)—The transfer of personal injury suits from one county to another in an effort to find a certain kind of jury has aroused the state. This act would require a lawsuit to be tried either in the county where the plaintiff resides or where the accident occurred. The measure is endorsed by the Anti-Damage Suit Racket Committee, the Arkansas Farm Bureau, this newspaper and others. We urge you to vote for it, scratching out the line "Against Act No. 314."

ACT 319—(Workmen's Compensation Act)—There are two Workmen's Compensation Acts, the principal difference being that this one, No. 319, would administer the compensation through private insurance, while the other bill, Act No. 1, would set up a state fund. The State is absolutely committed to No. 319, absolutely opposed to the state fund idea of No. 1. And like ourselves, the Arkansas Farm Bureau, newspapers, industry and community organizations generally are for No. 319 and against No. 1. We urge you to vote for 319, scratching out the line, "Against No. 319."

ACT 1 (Workmen's Compensation Act)—State Insurance Plan Fund)—As previously explained, this is "the other one," and you are advised to vote against it, scratching out the line, "For Act No. 1."
